IssueDirect Object References

This section contains a list of IssueDirect object references. An issue direct object reference is a reference to another issue object or to an external issue object such as a reference to a resource external issue reference class. An issue direct object reference can be used to reference other issues, or to reference external issues.

The following table lists the issue direct object references:

Object Reference	Description
IssueDirect	A reference to another issue object or to an external issue object such as a reference to a resource external issue reference class. An issue direct object reference can be used to reference other issues, or to reference external issues.

For more information about issue direct object references, see IssueDirect.
